

Lanyon Bowdler Solicitors is one of the county's leading law firms with five offices located in Shropshire.

When you live and work in such wonderful rural surroundings you cannot ignore the pure beauty of the countryside and want to help maintain it. So, as a firm we are committed to being as environmentally conscious as we can practicably be.

We are constantly considering and reviewing what we can do to ensure our Carbon emissions are minimised, and our working practices environmentally sound.

As part of our strategy we have put "environmental" impact high on our criteria when decision making, such as choosing premises that are eco friendly. Our new office on the Ludlow Eco Park has features including solar power for hot water, a rainwater harvesting system which is used to water the landscaping and solar shading. The building meets the latest BREEAM Excellence standard.

Our offices use paper accredited by the Forestry Stewardship Council (FSC) for letterheads and marketing material. We have in place recycling policies for all waste paper, toner cartridges, cardboard and plastic throughout the firm.

We have a very strong commitment to implementing a robust and practical environmental policy.

20th November 2008